DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 7 and 10-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Fischer (3,765,296; previously cited by Examiner).

Fischer discloses a device comprising two sidepieces 4a' and 4b' joined together at one end and free at the other end 16 (see Fig. 2). The first end comprises an opening. The sidepieces comprise outside surfaces and stages of inner surfaces that converge toward the free ends of the sidepieces in an initial position. A spreading slider 7 is arranged between the sidepieces and is flush with the sides of the sidepieces. The slider is cylindrically shaped and rests along the entire width of the sidepieces (see col. 4, lines 6-29). The slider moves in an exclusively translatable manner (id.). Though the slider is intended to be drawn away from the free ends of the sidepieces, it is nevertheless capable of being moved from a location where the sidepieces are joined together toward the free ends of the sidepieces so as to distract the sidepieces. This can be accomplished either by rotating the shaft 5 in an opposite direction, the threaded shaft being retained in the sidepieces by the depressions of kerfs 15 (see Fig. 2 and col. 5, lines 12-20); or alternatively, could be accomplished simply by manually moving the shaft and slider toward the free ends. The device comprises a vertical opening formed as an oblong shape, i.e. longer than it is wide, in which the slider is guided (see Figure A below).

Figure A

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fischer (3,765,296; previously cited by Examiner).

Fischer discloses the claimed invention except for explicitly disclosing that the device can be of unitary construction. However, forming the device from a single piece of material would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art since it has been held that forming in one piece an article which has formerly been formed from two pieces and put together involves only routine skill in the art. Howard v. Detroit Stove Works, 150 U.S. 164 (1893). It would have been further obvious to form the device from a known plastic such as polyetheretherketone (PEEK), since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 8 and 9 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
